OUR PAST, OUR ROOTS

Ca' Foscari University of Venice is a public university that was established in 1868 as the first International Business School in Italy.

Our name comes from our main administrative building, a Gothic palace built in the 15th century by one of our city's great noble families – the Foscari – on the Grand Canal in the heart of Venice, Italy.

Goin' APP

Connects students

We launched a new Ca' Foscari-specific version of the Goin' networking app for new international students because we know it helps to connect with your potential peers even before you arrive in Italy.

Students receive all the information before their arrival in Venice.

The screenshot displays the Goin' app interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links for Home, About Us, Our Solutions, News, and a Schedule a Demo button. The main content area features a map of Europe with several student profile cards overlaid. One profile for Léa is visible, showing her name, a graduation cap icon, a French flag, and interests in Business Management and Photography. Another profile for Peter (21) is also visible, with a bio: "Hello! I like to play games in my free time, especially COD! Let's hangout and play together!" and a list of interests including Spain, Madrid, Economics, and Games. A third profile for Ben Riley is partially visible, with interests in Computer science, Tennis, Poetry, and Painting. A "Housing group" card with 127 members is also shown. The interface includes a search bar, filters for "Same nationality", "Same study", and "Same campus", and a "Connection Invites (7)" notification. At the bottom, there are two buttons: "For Student Services" and "For Student Recruitment".
