

CAMPUS CLUB ADLERSHOF – Future Talks!

14.01.2025, 16:00-17:30

Future talks goes ST3AM – A new space for exchange and collaboration

Adlershof is home to many start-ups, co-working spaces and an incubator, but perhaps you've wondered where they're all housed and what a start-up office actually looks like?

In our January session, we'd like to introduce you to the latest innovation in working environments and interior design: the ST3AM building, a new kind of workspace at Rudower Chaussee with a VR/AR studio and 3D printers, co-working areas as well as spaces for concentration and creativity. ST3AM is designed to promote exchange and knowledge transfer by offering special areas such as lounges, kitchens, swings and coffee corners for a pleasant atmosphere that moreover invite interaction and stimulate creative and innovative processes. The design is focused on promoting privacy while creating a sense of belonging and community that provides a foundation for building trust in collaboration.

At ST3AM, the entire environment invites to new forms of knowledge exchange and ways of working. Our visit at the beginning of the year sets a dynamic and motivating start to the continuation of our networking events. That afternoon, let's meet some of the most dynamic start-ups working there, their founders and employees and see how and where they work and create.

Location: ST3AM, Rudower Chaussee 28, 12489 Berlin
